JLG Telehandler

JLG Telehandler Training Regina - In the late 1960's John L. Grove, with his wife Cora embarked on on a cross country trip in their RV. Newly retired, after spending several years working with his brother to assemble their crane business into an market leader, John had no idea that momentous trip would permit JLG Industries, Inc to emerge. The world leader of mobile aerial work platforms and precision material handling equipment was the end consequence of a road expedition.

During their journey, John reacquainted himself with former business connections along the way. In combination with these conversations and a noteworthy event; two workers were unfortunately electrocuted on scaffolding when the Groves were passing through the Hoover Dam. John uncovered an infinite marketplace for a product that could promptly and safely elevate individuals in the air to accomplish upkeep and other construction functions.

Upon returning from their travels, John established a joint venture with two friends and acquired a metal fabricating business in McConnellsburg, Pennsylvania. In 1970, starting operations with a crew of twenty employees, they designed and sold the first JLG aerial work platform. The company incorporates some of the simple design essentials of that original lift into existing designs.

JLG forklifts have come a ways since Mr. John L. Grove came back to town from his cross-country road trip and since the initial aerial work platform debuted on the market. At present, the company proudly continues to expand itself into different markets worldwide and develops new products to make sure consumers are capable of being more effective and perform in the workplace within a safer atmosphere.
